C Club Gives "Go Ahead" On Deal With City Fathers

Members Direct Board To Negotiate With City On Plan

Membership of the Country Club of the Everglades went on road at a meeting Friday night empowering the board of directors to transact a tentative proposal with the city.

Randall Dickinson moved that the club accept the tentative proposal with the city and that the board of directors deal with the club and course over to the city. The motion was unanimously accepted.

Under the proposal, the city would take over the club and course together with its indebtedness, according to club chairman A. E. Kirkman. Under the agreement the creditors would be paid first and then the mortgages.

Outlining the possibilities, Kirkman stated that the city may place the club under management of a special commission and that it may be used as a community recreation center. Another possibility, he said, is that the club house will be leased back to the Country Club of the Everglades.

Letters have been sent to creditors and mortgages asking for extension of date of payment to three and five years respectively, according to Kirkman. The majority of these letters have been signed and returned.

According to fair appraisal, the club is estimated at a value of between $50,000 and $60,000 as a golf course. Under land appraisal, the value is cut $30,000, Kirkman said.

Records show present indebtedness to creditors to be $11,583.05 and $10,850 to mortgage holders. Interest at six per cent amounts to about $2,000.

Outlining activities of the board, R. Y. Creach, Sr., reported that members have made a survey of many courses on the east coast to determine their operation procedures.

Candidates File For Commissioners

With filing deadline Tuesday at 4:30 p. m., six candidates had signed to run for commissioners of North Borough and Central Borough, according to Frank Anderson, city clerk.

Those filing from North Borough are Sam Berry, W. W. Cridler, and Harold J. Rabin. Central Borough candidates are Walter Ashley, Clyde L. Clayton, and C. W. McLaughlin.

Election is scheduled for September 12 from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m. in the city hall. All would-be voters must file permanent registration books before September 2 when they will be closed.

Attendance calling for permanent city registration began effective March 8 of this year.

Shootin' Blanks

By Pauliste

Band wagon wheels are beginning to turn as six candidates for commissioners of North Borough and Central Borough step on their "me" you should vote for my "boss." A candidate's life is not an easy one. He has to tolerate almost every kind of comment. Said a man to a candidate, "I wouldn't vote for you if you were St. Peter." Answered the candidate, "If I were St. Peter you couldn't be in my borough."

One might be excused for some things because of ignorance, but it is no excuse before the law. The point I'm getting at is the enforcement of the new city traffic ordinance. Belle Glade motorists can no longer chit chat in the middle of the street, park in the center of traffic, leave engines running in vacated auto, make "U" turns and half a dozen other things they are used to do.

Teachers Prepare For Registration

Teachers are preparing for registration and beginning of classes in the pre-term session.

Registration for first graders is scheduled at 9 next Friday morning. They will not be registered without their birth certificates, according to Frank O. Hobson, principal.

Only those six years of age before January 1 will be allowed to enter this year.

Sixth graders, juniors or seniors also can register Friday especially if they have a special problem, although September is not a registration date for older children.

Teachers' committees worked on schedules, report cards and school activities in their special meetings this week. Joint committee of elementary and high school instructors have a school teachers' policy handbook.

Local fourth through eighth grade teachers joined the Pahokee Teachers' Association at a meeting at the new clinic. Gene Raborn of the State Department of Education addressed the teachers describing the new curriculum and the new systems. W. A. Dobson, regional executive of the Boy Scouts, also gave a talk. Friday's schedule included a classroom Teachers' Day program, fish fry at Palm Beach Junior College and a principal's meeting at Central High in West Palm Beach.

Collins; Mrs. Burry, Miss Perilla Rydberg; Second grade, Miss Diela Blevins; Miss Frances Collins; Mrs. Ivan; Third grade, Mrs. Edythe Murray; Mrs. Nellene McLaughlin; Mrs. Edith Siefert; Mrs. Margaret Moore; Fifth grade, Mrs. Margaret Moore; Mrs. Genevieve Cove Sixth grade, Mrs. Kathryn Davidson; Mrs. Inez; 21st Infantry, Mrs. Joyce Leavitt; Boys Physical Education and Athletics, Mr. Davidson.

The next two club meetings will be devoted to speeches for and against the United World Federalists' referendum.

Actions Behind The Auctioneer Run Smoothly At Glades Cattle Market

Before Helena the Heller and Sidney the Sier can moo many calves they have changed owners through the smoothly running machinery at the Glades Livestock Market.

Activity behind the auctioneer and the selling ring works like a well oiled tractor making transactions simple for buyers and sellers.

Speculators watch animals scramble in and out of the ring and try to untangle the auctioneer's slybale. Few know the story leading up to and following animals' entrances and exits.

A set schedule is followed for every animal brought to the market for Friday afternoon sales, according to George C. Young, market manager.

Friday morning the hum of activity starts at the market as owners bring their animals between 9 and 12 for the pre-

Sgt. Carr Talks Of Korean Picture

To Sergeant Glynn Carr, the war in Korea is "just the continuation of a five-year war of nerves." Sgt. Carr, a member of the 21st Infantry, is now at Fort Jackson, S. C. with the 51st National Guard Division undergoing summer training.

Back in October of 1945, Sgt. Carr was a member of the Army's 40th Infantry Division occupying Korea for the United States.

Stationed near Seoul, the Korean capital, the sergeant recalls that almost immediately after the U. S. occupation forces arrived there developed a certain antagonism and friction between the Communists north of the 38th Parallel and the Americans and Koreans by that boundary set by the Yalta agreement. He remembered that some Americans on a hunting party ventured too near the Communists line and three of them were shot.

"Some of the American boys thought right then and there just some day they might have to lick the Communists, too," says Sgt. Carr.

Asked why he enlisted in the United States Army after his discharge from the Regular Army in 1949, the husky, brown sergeant replied that it was because again he wants to be fighting with his own friends from his own home town, most of whom are also in Belle Glade's "B" Company of the 51st National Guard.

The battalion Commander, Lt. Col. O. W. Hartwell, West Palm Beach, speaks highly of Sgt. Carr. "It is men like him," says the colonel, "who fully understand why we are in

HIGHWAY UNDERPASSES FOR FLORIDA CATTLE?

Now that cattle are forbidden from the state's highways, some Florida cattlemen have suggested underpasses for the where highways run through large ranches.

Alfred McKethan, state road board chairman, indicated that the board would consider making such provisions in future highways, but if underpasses are provided on existing roads, it will be at the cattlemen's expense. Request for the underpasses was submitted by the Florida Cattlemen's association, headed by W. M. Larkin, of Dade City.

City Will Decide On Club Proposal At Budget Hearing

A. E. Kirkman, representative of the Country Club of the Everglades, reported that the membership directed the officers to negotiate with the City on the tentative proposal that the city take over the club and golf course.

The Commission postponed decision until a budget hearing Friday morning at the regular council meeting Wednesday night.

All mortgages and all except four creditors have agreed agreements to extend the period of payments due from the club, Kirkman said.

Commissioner Julius Harris asked that running expenses of the club be presented at the budget hearing.

R. L. Dowling, representative of Hunnicutt and Associates, city appraisers, presented a more detailed plan for recording city's real and personal property. Commissioners agreed to take the program under consideration and directed Attorney Herbert Beck to see if it ran counter to specifications in the charter.

The council approved establishment of a swimming pool sinking fund. The proposal provides that $2000 be included in each year's budget for the purpose and that amounts for the pool be transferred from park and playground funds.

Commissioner Frank Dooley asked that $300 dollars be provided for installation of colored playground equipment. The request was granted.

Members of the election board named were: G. E. Evans, clerk; H. O. Carlton, alternates.

PARIS, PLATT INITIATED INTO LOCAL ELKS LODGE

Logan Paris and Millian Platt were initiated into membership at the regular meeting of the Elks Lodge Monday night.

Exalted Ruler, James L. Gay, announced that the meeting scheduled for September 4 on Labor day will be postponed. Meeting will be held as usual the following week, he said.

Attenders received notice of the barbeque and dance at the Country Club of the Everglades on Labor Day.

Prison Labor Used Almost Entirely on Building Project

The Glades "Crusoe Island" of self support, Florida State Prison Farm Number Two, became more adequate Tuesday when prisoners moved into the new prison structure begun three years ago.

The brick and steel $750,000 plant is a streamlined version of the old wooden tin topped buildings on which construction started in 1932.

Prisoners were the artisans. They accomplished the construction project with a building superintendent and construction foreman's help. The only outside help. The plant is the product of one of the most practical vocational training programs which have been devised. Authorities in construction fields instructed prison crews in the varied building tasks.

Prison farm superintendent.

Reviewing advantages of the new structure, Greene points out that escapes will be cut, facilities expanded, and sanitation improved. Prisoners will no longer be transferred to Ft. Myers County Jail when hurricanes threaten the old prison. The new buildings are firm and strong.

Located 3 1/4 miles north west of the old farm site on the Pahokee Road, the new prison offers little means of escape. A canal moat, brick walls and barbed wire fences surround the 100 acre area.

Guards remain on watch 24 hours a day in the six towers spaced around the prison. At the gate house tower, the only entrance, guards are on watch around the clock. Visitors are checked there before they are admitted to the prison.

The arsenal, a steel enclosed room in the gate, houses all fire arms and ammunition.

Greene admits he experiences a surge of relief on reviewing the strong bulwark, for he contributes 75 per cent of the previous escapes to inadequacy of the old prison. "I'll be able to sleep at night now," he says.

Brick visitors sheds will replace temporary structures now used for the same purpose. A brick chapel will be built at the south end of the field.

The main building facing the prison ranges from the dining room, mail barracks, doctor's office, boiler room, kitchen and laundry. Two wings are still under construction.

EDENS SWELTS FOR MARINE CORPS DUTY

Kenneth T. Edens, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Edens of 224 Avenue B, has joined the Florida National Guard through recent enlistment in the Marine Corps.

Edens is a graduate of Belle Glade High School where he was a member of the school band.

RANDOM LINES

By SAWHORN RAY

Jake Boyd sent orders to the engineering here to proceed to Cleveland with his staff, find the leader of the Tamiami Trail Blazers and return with a check to Twenty-mile Bend. At this point they would be met by various county officials who would escort the in-laws to Cleveland. In West Palm Beach, they would be met by the opening of a new trail from Ft. Myers to that city.

The owners threw the resident engineer for a loop, he had never heard of the Tamiami Trail Blazers and was not clear in the mind of the Cleveland required discovering.

The maintenance superintendent, contacted, present arguments and a quest of liquidation fresh from Bimini, was induced to undertake the journey.

Trail Blazers were discovered in the dining room of the Cleveland Inn storing away

TO THE MERCHANTS
Buyers are not the only ones guilty of war scare misdeeds. Merchants in their wild buying spree. Merchants must also bear part of the burden of guilt.

Shoppers have reported boosted prices on items which merchants consider scarce and which might be subject to volume scarce stock buying. Many resent the unnecessary price hike and think it an unreasonable encroachment on the prevailing situation.

Local merchants also have been guilty of taking advantage of the public by charging unreasonable prices due to Belle Glade's isolation from wider markets of the cities.

They forget that the roads are crowded between here and West Palm Beach, Ft. Lauderdale and Miami. Merchants seem to feel it is the duty of those living in Belle Glade to patronize local business, yet they themselves are blame for the large share of trade keeping into surrounding neighborhoods.

If the outward buying traffic is to be broken, they must reckon with themselves. People follow values and will not be taken advantage of for very long.

If people are to do their buying here, merchants must offer them quality goods and the right prices.

Actually the picture adds up on their side. In the first place, local people want to do their purchasing here because of civic pride. They want to see Belle Glade money stay in Belle Glade. They know that local prosperity is beneficial to all.

In the second place, they know it is harder to buy here instead of taking a 40 or 80 mile journey over rough roads to Miami. In spite of these reasons for local spending, people will not buy here if over charged.

The Chamber of Commerce has been emphasizing patronage of local business this summer. If the merchants are to do their share in the campaign, they must take stock and start "living right."

We are for the idea, but we don't blame people for wanting their money to go as far as possible—it's just good sense.

the grove of Florida's $100,000 crop of vegetables and tropical fruits, according to LaMonte Graw, FFVA manager, in Orlando.

"The farm labor supply for the 1950 season appears uncertain at this point," said Graw. "Much will depend on the number of workers drawn into the meat services and war industries, as well as up on the possible curtailment of transportation facilities."

"Although the labor supply, not domestic and supplementary, available to the Florida industry during the past season was generally adequate, in spite of a 6% increase in volume produced and shipped, it was too early to determine what amount of migratory labor might be diverted from agriculture by war activities."

"Recent efforts by the Florida Fruit and Vegetable Association to recruit domestic labor from other states have developed the fact that anticipated excess of farm labor in those states will probably not be available."

Hearings now are being held throughout the country before a commission appointed by the president to study migratory farm labor problems, and by a sub-committee of the House of Representatives.

Rev. J. B. Adams will deliver the sermon to the Minister's Federation at 3 o'clock Sunday at Mt. Zion A. M. E. Church. The choir No. 1 will render the song service.

The services were enjoyed by all attending Sunday. Sunday A. M. the pastor preached "God Called a Servant, Who Will Go?" Sunday evening he preached a great sermon.

There were four visitors during A. M. service.

A hotel guest was indignant when the clerk handed him the bill for $25.
"But that includes the meals," explained the clerk.
"But I didn't eat here," said the guest.
"That's not my fault," the clerk assured him.
"They were here for you," in that case," declared the guest, "you owe me $25 for kissing my wife."
"What do you mean?" flared the clerk. "I didn't kiss your wife."
"It's your own fault," said the guest. "She was here for you."

The Golden Rams practiced out to a pre-season practice Monday afternoon. Coach Leavett's address to them was clear and direct. "Well, here we are, men. Undefeated, undefeated, and getting ready for the first game of the season." The coach doesn't know he made the statement, but he might have.

Lest one awake in the middle of some night and think Belle Glade is being invaded, let me give warning that the city is using a new method of dusting. The new ground dusting machine can only be operated after dark since the insecticide rises with the sun, according to city engineer M. B. Willis. City officials are giving the machine a try due to its economy over air dusting. They are anxious to get public reaction to the new procedure either pro or con. Some of the citizens say they think the night comparison compares favorably with afternoon dusting with airplanes and their planes in the living room.

Although a man once wrote a pretty good short story on a piece of string, few of us stop to reverence the little article. We never realized that it would cause a stir in Washington circles.

The proposed frame bill, providing a 35 million dollar revolving fund, may do just that. The product is considered important in the defense program.

CINEMATIC CHATTER

News comes from Hollywood that the popular Western star Rod Cameron, and his partner in the films, Forrest Tucker, are forming their own production company. When interviewed, Mr. Cameron stated that they have some revolutionary ideas in the way of story and production for the cinema. We look for great things from these very clever fellows. Tucker, the leader member of the combine, has had years of experience in practically all branches of the profession.

When the Sheriff's Dodge springs their grand opening 10-year-old Cherry Rogers, your fryer offspring of Roy Rogers will be riding right alongside daddy in the "grand entry" parade. Cherry quite recently made the picture "Trail of Robinhood," and she made a very favorable appearance in this, her first picture. J. Arthur Rank is trying very hard to get screen rights to the famous stage play "Rain," which had such a phenomenal run in New York a number of years back. If he is successful he will try to persuade Douglas Lamour to come to England to play the part of Squire Thompson. The last screen version of this famous drama starred Joan Crawford as Sadie Thompson. Lovely Elizabeth Taylor, now married to Nick Hilton, has an invite to honeymoon at the home of Sharmian Douglas at her home in London for the purpose of meeting Princess Elizabeth. Seems hard to believe but it's Claude Jarman, that freckled-faced kid in "The Yearling," just around the corner from today is almost eligible for the draft. World War II hero Audie Murphy, most decorated G. I. in that war is surely going places in the movie. Faster than the late Wm. S. This will be Good News to the Vegetable Grower

A vegetable truck-crop grower who lives on the other side of town came in the other day and asked me when he could get a Farmall Cub tractor and a planter and cultivator to go with it. "Believe it or not," I answered, "You can get delivery in time for your first crop." I went on to tell him that I might be able to deliver, in time, a Farmall C or a Farmall Super-A, whichever would fit his farm and crop plan best. Any one of 'em has the right speed and clearance for any job, crop, or row spacing. And on all three you can get fingertip Farmall Touch-control for hydraulically controlling mounted quick-change implements. It's simple too. With one finger, you "tell" the implement what to do! And don't forget this important thing about a Farmall. Whenever you need parts or prompt service, I'm always here to help you.

HOSPITAL, RED CROSS PLAN TRAINING SERIES

The Belle Glade Memorial Hospital and the American Red Cross are laying plans for a series of first aid courses for the area to begin soon.

Ernest H. Fiedler and Dr. Herman Baxt are local organizers of the program, and individuals and organizations interested in the courses should contact them.

Under the plan two separate courses, standard first aid training of 18 hours and instructor's training of 12 hours, are scheduled. The latter course will be open to those already holding a standard certificate.

Melvin Livingston, Red Cross Executive Secretary in West Palm Beach, and Richard Morris, Director of the first aid courses of the American Red Cross, recently consulted with Fiedler and Baxt on the plan. "We would like to see at least one person from every family take the training," Fiedler says.

SEBANIA, INDIGO CROPS INCREASING SAYS COUNTY AGENT

More than 2,500 acres of crop land and citrus groves in Lee County have been seeded to cover crops this season, reports County Agent C. P. Heuck. Sebania has proved to be the most popular legume for vegetable and indigo land, while hairy indigo was planted by most of the citrus growers.

Several thousand additional acres of range lands have been converted to permanent pastures this year, the agent says, with Pangola leading all other grasses in acreage.

Mr. Heuck also reports that the mango harvest is over. Most of the mangoes went to California where they brought high prices.

The Agricultural Extension Service, Gainesville, has a new bulletin on control of household insects.

When peanuts are grown on light sandy soils, during them with sulphur increases both yields and oil content of the nut, it has been found by agronomists at the Florida Experiment Station.

INTEREST IN LIVESTOCK GROWS IN PALM BEACH

More interest than ever is being shown in the livestock industry in Palm Beach County, reports County Agent M. U. Mounts, as evidenced by the many requests pouring in from local and out-of-state individuals about livestock possibilities.

Although the agent believes that vegetables will continue to be a major agricultural enterprise in the county, he says a combination of vegetables and livestock would benefit both the farmer and the total agricultural effort of the area. Therefore, Mr. Mounts is advising farmers to fence and cross-fence their land where possible, as an aid in developing better crop rotation systems and maintaining better control of livestock.

Brahman Assoc. To Hold Meeting September 2

Directors of Eastern Brahman Association will discuss the association's Atlanta exhibit at a meeting called for 11:00 a. m. Saturday, September 2, in Bartow, it is announced by President L. E. Pugh. The registered Brahman show for the 1950 Southeastern Fair will embrace about 100 head from Louisiana, Georgia, and Florida, according to W. T. Bennett, stock show superintendent.

A premium list of $2,000, including funds pledged by the American Brahman Breeders' Association of Houston, has been posted, and copies are to be distributed within the next few weeks.

George W. Barnes, district extension agent from Fort Stockton, Texas, will judge the Brahman show, beginning at 9:00 a. m. Thursday, October 5. Cattle are to be in the barns on Sunday, October 1, and will remain for the duration of the show which closes October 7. Plans for the show were perfected by Bennett and R. E. Warren, L. S. Harris and T. J. Durance, Jr., representing the EBA, co-sponsors of the show.

Warren of Jessup, Ga., and Harris and Durance, of Balfour and Brighton, Fla., respectively, are members of the EBA's permanent show committee of which Sid Crochet of Clewiston is chairman.

The Atlanta show will embrace all popular breeds of cattle, but this is the first time a Brahman division has been included.

Fla. Vegetable Industry To Use 50 Million Containers

Approximately 50,000,000 containers will be required to transport the 1950-51 crop of Florida vegetables and non citrus crops to market and some essential container materials may soon be in short supply, according to LaMonte Graw, manager of the Florida Fruit and Vegetable Association in Orlando.

"A preliminary survey of sources of container supply recently completed by the Florida Fruit and Vegetable Association has developed the fact that while container manufacturers have adequate facilities for meeting this need, the available supply of materials is considered to be limited. The container situation has already been reported as serious on the Pacific coast."

"Growers and shippers are concerned over the probable restrictions which might be placed on containers by the Federal Government. Container manufacturers are faced with the possible diversion of the supply of lumber, nails, steel and other materials, and with the fact that the cost of these materials is rising.

"Other factors affecting the availability of containers are the possibility of price ceilings which could place manufacturers in a difficult situation, and the conversion of some plants to government work. One manufacturer has already advised that his plant is converted to war supply," said Graw.

Container manufacturers have urged shippers to build up inventories so that manufacturers might be able to supply their needs before diverting their facilities, according to Graw.

Shippers will recall the fact that during World War II the Federal Government restricted the number of types of containers that could be used. It is suggested that they should be prepared to discuss voluntary standardization of containers, such as has been achieved for celery and other commodities, at the annual meeting of FFVA in October," said Graw.

GLASSCOCK STRESSES HOT WEATHER CHORES FOR YATTS STOCKMEN

Mowing pastures if necessary to keep them in a vegetative condition and treating all injured animals to prevent screw-worm infestation are two important jobs for Florida cattlemen at this season of the year, according to Dr. R. S. Glasscock of the University of Florida's Agricultural Experiment Stations.

"During the summer rainy season," the animal husbandman explained, "grass grows fast and should be mowed to keep it from becoming mature and fibrous. Use of a mowing machine on a pasture that is growing too fast for the stock on it will mean pounds of beef the cattleman would not get from mature grass."

Screw-worms are particularly troublesome during the hot months, Dr. Glasscock also pointed out, and early detection of cuts and bruises on animals, and treatment with a suitable repellent will prevent infestations.

The experiment station animal husbandman also offered these seasonal suggestions for cattlemen:

Isolate cows with heifer calves from bulls to prevent too early breeding of the heifers.

Make arrangements to provide supplemental feed and good pastures for heifers that are to be retained for the breeding herd.

Market all well developed calves that are hot to be held over for herd replacements.

Plan to plant clover and other legume pastures in the fall.

Spray regularly to control flies and other pests of livestock.

We soon discovered who the Blazers were. There could be no doubt. It seems that those explorers had formed the hazardous trail from Miami to Tampa immediately after the road grade had been leveled. They now proposed to open the route through the Everglades east and west.

Cars of the motorcade were stripped for action. Fenders were removed. Axes, shovels and cordage festooned the cars appearing like paper streamers at a New Years Struggle. Their slogan—"Palm Beach or Bust."

After several self congratulatory speeches by members of the group, the Palm Beach County delegation was found. The reason for their discovery was that the maintenance superintendent insisted on wearing conventional blue serge plus detachable collar and tie. The blue serge suits was hot and he was in no good humor.

The M. C. requested that the Palm Beach County representatives say a few words. Tony took the floor with a lurch and exclaimed, "what do you want me to say." The M. C. replied, "tell us what you are here and what you came for. Address a few words to these gentlemen."

Answering Tony said, "we had to come or Jaha Boyd would have fired us. I tried to get the engineer to come by himself but he wouldn't, so here I am. I can't figure out what you want to do, this is 1928 and there is only one remark was requested from from here. It does not need tion.

The first long distance, two-way telephone conversation took place in 1887. Eggs will beat lighter and more quickly when not too cold.

We've Nearly Doubled the Number of Telephones

...and we're still on the run!

What an expansion of telephone facilities for five short years! The number of Southern Bell telephones in service has been increased from 1,803,980 at the end of World War II to 3,366,000 today—nearly doubled. Thus, in five years time, we have achieved an increase in telephones as large as the increase for the first 63 years of our company's history.

And here's more of the five-year picture of progress:

RURAL TELEPHONES tripled ...

from 144,721 to 434,900.

LONG DISTANCE CIRCUITS nearly doubled, going from 9,300 to 16,500.

AMOUNT OF MONEY INVESTED

IN TELEPHONE FACILITIES more than doubled, advancing from $389,

600,000 to $937,000,000.

SERVICE ... clearer, faster and more dependable.

The South has experienced five years of unprecedented growth ... and a tremendous upsurge in telephone demand in towns and on the farm.

Meeting the demand has meant constructing new buildings, installing new central office equipment and thousands of miles of wire on pole lines, and in cables. For each telephone added today, these facilities are costing nearly twice as much as in 1945.

Telephone service is one of the nation's great assets in any time of emergency. Our facilities and the skill of telephone men and women were never so far advanced as they are today. Whatever communications needs may arise, they will be met to the utmost.

DAIRY GROUP DRAWS UP OBJECTIVES FOR INDUSTRY FOR YEAR

Maintenance of a high standard for milk and milk products and continued efforts for herd improvement are major objectives of the Florida dairy industry for 1950-51, according to Clarence W. Reeves, dairy specialist with the State Agricultural Extension Service and secretary of the Florida Dairy Industry Planning Committee.

The committee met here recently to review dairy progress during the past year and to make plans for the new year. It includes 18 members and represents all sections and all phases of the state's dairy industry.

In addition to high standards for milk and milk products and herd improvement, the group also drew up and recommended the following objectives for 1950-51 for all members of the industry:

Full support and cooperation

In the state mastitis control program.

Continued efforts in cooperation with the State Live Stock Board to eliminate brucellosis from herds.

An all-around good herd health program.

Development of cooperative artificial breeding to enable more dairy farmers to secure service from bulls proved for high production. In this objective the committee emphasized service out of use of unproved bulls on a large scale in artificial breeding opens the possibility of great damage from bulls which later prove poor.

Use of methods of raising dairy calves that will secure their development for maximum milk production.

Improvement of pastures and production of at least 30 percent of the total feed supply on the farm.

Handling of Class 2 milk so it will not depress the price of Class 1 milk.

Development by milk plants of the most profitable outlets for surplus milk through sale of cream, skim-milk products, condensed milk, and other milk products.

FFVA To Review Competition At Miami Meeting Oct. 4-5

Florida producers of fruits and vegetables will review in close detail, at a meeting of the Florida Fruit and Vegetable Association in Miami Beach, Oct. 4-5, both domestic and foreign competition in their field, from data supplied by FFVA economists based on several years' figures, according to the association's manager, Laketon Graw. While the situation abroad is highly uncertain, studies are being made with a possible shortage in refrigerator cars in mind, which naturally would throw a heavy responsibility on Florida growers to replenish short-markets formerly supplied in part or in whole by Cuban and/or Mexican exporters.

Recommendations already made by FFVA officials, for increase, decrease, or no charge in specific products, will be reviewed at that time, in case the national situation does not ease. Recommended for increase are cantaloupes, cauliflower, lettuce and strawberries, with decreases for snap beans, cabbage, celery, cucumbers, eggplant, escarole, peppers, Irish potatoes, fall squash and watermelons. Lima beans, sweet corn, green peas, winter and spring squash, and tomatoes were suggested to follow the 1949 average.

Whether or not wholesale revisions have to be made later in these recommendations, Graw points out a cheerful note in the fact that production of most of these commodities is already at or above World War II levels.

Muck Grown Vegetables Show More Protein, Say Experiment Authorities

The following article in the Miami Herald testifies to the slow-growing realization of the supremacy of Everglades grown vegetables:

"Scientists have buried an old ghost that used to pop up to haunt Floridians every once in a while. It's the question: Are Florida vegetables as nutritious as vegetables grown elsewhere?"

The answer is an emphatic "yes." Nixon Sanley, Herald farm and garden editor, told the story Sunday, quoting world-famous experts. Some Florida-grown vegetables, he noted, have been proved by tests to contain more vitamins and minerals than the same kind of vegetables grown in other states.

Other tests showed vegetables grown in the peat soils of the Everglades contain more proteins than foods grown on mineral soils.

So the answer, in case anybody asks you, is that Florida vegetables are every bit as nutritious as those grown in the rest of the country—and sometimes more so.

As for flavor, just try any Florida vegetable cooked and served within a few hours after being harvested. That's when the taste is best."

According to tests made at the Everglades Experiment Station, even grasses grown on muckland show more protein.

PRISON FARM MOVES

Now the farm is completely self supporting with the exception of imports of flour, coffee, salt and a few other staples.

In addition to providing its own groceries, the farm produces enough to sell five times the amount it uses to other state institutions. Excess proceeds turned into the state general revenue fund amounting to $100,000 last year.

Under the increased production schedule last year, the farm produced 261,000 pounds of sugar; 300,000 pounds of dried beans; 83,000 gallons of tomatoes; and 45,000 gallons of syrup. Through its own trucking service, the prison distributes produce to institutions from Big Pine Key to Pensacola.

Covered walk ways connect the main building with colored barracks on both sides of the building. The unsectioned barracks provide space for 600 colored and 50 white prisoners. Guards keep a vigil all night in the alleys surrounding sleeping areas.

No jail would be complete without the dreaded solitary confinement cells. The new prison has six with complete sanitary facilities which provide the only form of punishment in the institution.

Other new features of the farm include a standard athletics field south of the buildings and an auxiliary power unit.

Actually completion of the prison is only the beginning of a crowded construction program at the farm. Future plans include a brick office building in front of the gate house, new guard barracks, conversion of the old guard barracks, additional staff houses on the old farm site, five new garage and machine shops, two ware houses and a cold storage house.

Superintendent Greene has seen the farm expand from an "L" shaped building designed to accommodate 40 men into the existing plant. He witnessed addition of the syrup mill in 1935, the sugar mill in 1945, and the dairy barn two months ago. He has seen a complete general revenue fund amounting to $100,000 last year.

WHY WILL ONE OF THESE BOYS EARN $24,000 MORE?

During his working years, the average boy who finishes high school earns about $24,000 more than one who drops out. It may seem better to quit school and go to work...but in the long run it's better for the boy...and his country...to stay in school and graduate.

FARMERS READY TO DO
ALL THEY CAN IN ARMY
CRISIS THAT DEVELOPS

In this critical period of world affairs, Florida farmers stand ready to do all they can in behalf of their country whatever eventually might develop.

Strong, independent, and loyal,
they are ready to do their utmost in anything which is asked of them for the good and preservation of the land they love.

And it should be reassuring to all to know that these men, with their knowledge of crops and crop production, are ready to throw all their efforts into a great and energetic drive to produce the food and other agricultural products that are or may be needed by America in whatever crisis that might come up.

They and thousands of other farmers all over this great land are ready. As in World War II, as in all danger periods in American history, they are steadily and eagerly in the help, to do their part. During World War II they produced millions of tons of food, they broke all records, they produced more food than any other country in the world in the history of the world. From their fields and flocks and herds and forests came a great outpouring of food and other agricultural products that made it possible for this country and allies to emerge victorious.

Without that great production, victory would not have been possible, for food is necessary, fundamental, the most essential of all products for war or peace. The food and other products that American farmers produced gave the people of America and the peoples of many other countries the strength that was needed for victory.

Farmers of Florida and every other state are hoping that there will not be another worldwide conflict such as World War II, but they are prepared to do all they can.
